A Quarterly Publication of Nepalese Association in Southeast America (NASeA)

Volume 2, Issue 1

January 2014

Message from the President

The last issue of Shangri-La was uniquely for Dashain and Deepawali. Again, NASeA is really excited to bring out the fourth issue of this newsletter. We got lots of positive and encouraging comments on the last issue by our audiences. Mainly, they commented on our classical blessings in Sanskrit language which are chanted during the Dashain festival perennially as follows:

आयु द्रोण सुते श्रीयं दशरथे सत्रुस्च याम...राघवे

ऐश्वर्यं नहुशे गतिस्च पवाने मनंच दुर्योधने,

दानवा सुर्य सुते बलम हलधरे सत्यम्च कुन्ती सुते

बिज्ञाने बिदुरे भवति भवताम किर्तिस्च नारायणे

Young people in the USA appreciated the blessing from their seniors with the meanings such as immortal life, dignity, victories over evils, riches, families, prosperities, health, and so forth. Likewise, every piece of literature was highly appreciated. Though it was delayed in publication, many said Shangri-La shall never cease its publication no matter what. Now, we are publishing a new gift just in time for the New Year of 2015. Thus, NASeA wishes a Happy New Year to all our Nepalese communities.

Shangri-La is aiming to publish literature that will promote Nepalese languages, heritage, culture, and its preservation in North America, and beyond. Many have commented very positively to see its growth and expansion to the Nepalese world. Thus, we really appreciate all contributors for providing us their valuable literatures to publish in the first volume of Shangri-La. Also, we express our gratitude to the Publication Committee chaired by Dr. Dilip Panthee with his fellow members as they worked tirelessly to make this project successful. Let us thank the Publication Committee members as they deserve our appreciations.

Dr. Ram C. Baral
President, NASeA

Wish You All a Very Happy and Prosperous
New Year 2015

Shangri-La in Its Second Year

Shangri-La is the quarterly newsletter published by the Nepalese Association in Southeast America (NASeA). NASeA is committed to fulfill its mission statement by all means as far as possible. The role of a regular publication to address the objectives and carry out the mission of an organization cannot be over emphasized. In order to achieve this objective, NASeA initiated a publication following its commencement in 1991. The newsletter 'Yeti Views' was published in 1993 for the first time. In the beginning, it was published annually, at least for three years (1993-1995). Later, they started publishing it quarterly for two years (1996-1997). It then was published annually again from 1998 until 2003. It was discontinued after 2003. Although NASeA knew from the beginning that it needed some regular publication to provide the information and educational materials to the Nepalese community, its publication went from annual to quarterly back to annual.

On the other hand, the annual 'Yeti View Points' publication marked the beginning of a joint convention between the Association of Nepalese in Mid-West America (ANMA) and NASeA. Since then, it is being published regularly and all issues are available online. ANMA used to publish 'View Points' and NASeA published 'Yeti Views' as mentioned above. Since they started having a joint convention, they thought that it was logical to have a joint publication with a common name- 'Yeti View Points'. It was basically a merger between two organizations in terms of publication. The annual publication of 'Yeti View Points' is regular and most of the issues are available online at www.naseaonline.org.

With that historical background, NASeA has long realized the necessity of finding an outlet to provide information to serve its members and overall community by providing a range of information including literary, scientific, regional events, cultural and others. The concept of a quarterly newsletter was proposed during the tenure of NASeA's President,

*Dilip R. Panthee Ph.D.
Asheville, North Carolina*

Dr. Sanjeeb Sapkota, and officially took the momentum during current President, Dr. Ram Chandra Baral, with the formation of a Publication Committee within the Executive Committee of NASeA (2013-2015), we realized that an additional publication is necessary as it has been realized by its members before. As a result, we decided to publish Shangri-La. With the enthusiastic support, love and best wishes from you members, the Shangri-La successfully completed its first year and it is entering into its second year. We hope that we will get similar support in the future for its continuation.

It should be clear to all that Shangri-La is not a substitute to the 'Yeti View Points'. This is a quarterly publication whereas the latter is an annual publication of joint NASeA/ANMA convention. The Shangri-La editorial board proudly shares the compliments received from its readers and is energized to provide more service to the wider Nepalese community in a quarterly basis. Shangri-La is NASeA's collective voice and as always, we welcome your feedback and comment towards improvement. and best serving our community.

Establishment of a community center has been primary aim of TNCC since its inceptions. This is the history making that TNCC is buying a property for community center. Triad Nepali Community can all hold our head high and be proud to calling us members of TNCC. For a small community like us finding a suitable piece of land for establishment of Community Center was not only a very ambitious task but far reaching too. However members' encouragements and feedback has been a constant inspiration for TNCC. In all its board meetings, search for community center was always one of the primary agendas and TNCC had many heated discussions on this topic. Finally with a huge support from the community members, TNCC has a Nepali community center's property in the Triad North Carolina. Still long way to go to fully accomplish the ultimate goal of TNCC but it is a great starting point. TNCC has set up the Community Center Committee to run day-to-day affairs of the Community Center and planning and development of it. TNCC will set up a short term and long term plan for the community center with a consultation with its members and experts in the field soon.

Details of the both events will be announced later.

An Interactive Program with Former Deputy PM and VP of Nepali Congress Mr. Ram Chandra Paudel

Theme: Constitution writing process in Nepal; are we on track?

Honorable Poudel Jee is a veteran politician and a very influential leader of our premier political party 'Nepali Congress.' He is the intellectual stalwart and statesman of the party. He has been active in politics for several decades and needs no introduction to Nepalese people living in Nepal and abroad.

An interaction program with honorable Poudel was held on November 24th, 2014 moderated by Dr. Nar Kaji Gurung, Chair, Public Relationships Committee, NASeA.

The program was attended by around 200 people from around the world via teleconference with great enthusiasm. Moderator Dr. Nar Kaji Gurung started the program and President of NASeA, Dr. Ram Chandra Baral welcomed the speaker and participants. People asked several questions mainly on the constitution drafting process. Mr. Paudel responded each and every questions in detail. Mr. Paudel gave a brief information on the process of constitutional drafting in Nepal. Below is the summary of the questions.

1. What is your analysis of failure of the 1st CA and the clouds on the 2nd CA?

It is due to NC and UML compromising with Maoists called the '12 point agreements.' Let it be clear that:

Any compromise can be within democracy, but cannot be between democracy and communism.

The Maoists aggression (1996) was against democratically elected government of NC to impose Communism. NC was sworn to defend democracy and had no mandate to compromise. Yet the 'Interim parliament' had 20% unelected Maoists. It is the direct violation of the very democratic norm.

Maoists are saying, then and today, that they are not bound by democratic norms, because their share of power comes from arms, not from ballots.

This core issue must be understood. The 2013 election and its mandate is and should be the only framework now. NC must stand up for and not compromise against democracy and people's mandate today. If NC cannot stand up for democracy and honor the mandate then it must resign. Let it be clear that appeasing terror is inviting more of, not solving it.

2. What is the rationale behind abandoning the 1990 Constitution?

After all, it is the democratic constitution, with the clear preamble that people, not the king, is the sovereign. It also has ample provision for amendments if need be. Let me also remind you that NC wrote it. NC MPs got elected and sworn under it. Just because a few terrorists shows up NC should not have abandoned it. If NC could not safe guard it, then NC should have resigned. If you do not abide by it then you had no basis to continue as MPs.

3. Where is mandate to declare Nepal a 'Secular' state away from our root Hindu rastra?

The issue was never discussed in public, nor came from. To impose such important national decision without mandate is the 'Treason.'

Let me also remind you that secularism applies against only Religions like – Christianity, Islam and Communism. It is irrelevant to Dharma like ours. Dharmas are not Religions. A Dharma is about truth 'Satya' and inner spiritual discipline 'Yoga.' A religion is about social control through brain washing. Religions are not spiritual systems. Thus, secularism means not letting any religion to interfere with politics - theology. However, Hindu rastra simply means recognition of our heritage, roots and values; not theology.

It is well known that the change in status from the only Hindu rastra is done with bribery and corruption to facilitate Christian conversion. Thus it is not constitutional and unacceptable. A status can be changes only through public debate and the referendum.

Let me remind you that our shared heritage, roots and values are the very basis of our nationhood. Merely having bunch of people together does not a make a nation. Otherwise, a prison will be a great nationalist institution.

Let me also add that we have many Dharmas in Nepal, like Shiva Dharma, Buddha Dharma, Vaishnav Dharma, Tantra Dharma etc. All these Dharmas are collectively known as the 'Hinduism' or Sanatana Dharma. Shiva Dharma is also known as Tibetan bon Po and Kirati Mundhum. Shiva's teachings are spread out far and wide including in Veda, Kirati Mundhum, Tibetan Bon Po, and South Indian Agama. The unity of the three principal sects of Hinduism in Nepal – Bauddha (Buddha), Shaiva (Nilkantha) and Vaishnav (Narayan) is beautifully given in the temple located in Kathmandu valley, which we lovingly call – 'Budha Nilkantha Narayan.'

4. NC leadership, especially in the government, must be of tougher caliber.

In general Nepalese subscribe to social democratic political values. That makes NC the natural choice. However, NC also must precipitate better leadership – spiritual, intellectual and physical. It must root out corruption within. Otherwise, NC will follow the footsteps of Indian Congress. Quality leadership is always the premium in any field at any time. However, at this cross road of

10. Nepal is the land of Buddha and peaceful people. But if attacked we do fight back ferociously. Thus, we always have been free and independent. Our soldiers are known as the brave ‘Gurkhas.’

history, it is even more so in politics in Nepal. The sole criterion to join the executive branch must be the efficiency in governance and acumen to stand up against political intimidation.

5. The 'ethnic states' is the recipe for national disaster. Remember Yugoslavia.

We do appreciate it very much that NC is not giving into the terrors and threats and agreeing to the 'Ethnic states.' It will, in certain terms, bring unprecedented frictions between our diverse ethnic groups, which is hitherto living harmoniously. It is true that our society has many imbalances and we have many marginalized sub-groups. However, the solution is not the ethnic states. The real solution comes from promoting the well-known factor: a. education, b. job \ business diversity, and c. inclusive politics.

Why the demand for this self-destructive ethnic states? It comes from Maoists and Church propaganda. They are not interested in solving our problems, rather works to exaggerate and take advantage of our social cleavages. They would rather destroy than heal in their attempt at Maoists insurgency and Christian conversions. Their propaganda is especially directed to our Janajatis to use them as cannon fodder. "There are two classes – Bahun and Janajati. There are always class struggles. To be free we have to wage class struggle." "Only thing about Dharma is to abide by caste system. Thus, the only salvation is to convert to Christianity." This, malign propaganda must be understood in proper context and NC must take stand against.

6. The parliamentary democracy is the best for Nepal and it must not be abandoned.

The parliamentary democracy comes with separation of powers and balance between three – legislative, judiciary and executive branches. The President, without power, remains at the top as the connection of these three. It is also a safety valve to safeguard any excesses. It comes with centuries of British experience and decades of Indian and Nepalese experiences. Most Nepalese are tuned to this system. Then why we have proposals for different mixed systems? It comes from Maoists attempt at discrediting true and tried method to impose their system. Please do remember General Katuwal Kand. Maoist strategy is: a. power to President and Prime minister and b. make sure Judiciary is not independent. It is merely to create enough confusion in the constitution. It is to set stage for Maoists coup in opportune time. Please be clear about it. If there are any problems in the Parliamentary system, they can be discussed and amended innovatively.

7. Since SAARC countries are meeting in Kathmandu, let us ask our Muslim neighbors to treat Hindus in their countries justly. If not Nepal, who else will? If we do not speak for them, who will speak for us?

गीत

ज्ञानेन्द्र गदाल, कोलोराडो

१. आफै बन्नु पर्छ

विपत्तिमा काँधै हाल्नु, आउदैनु कोही पनि
बलेकै आगो मात्र, ताच्छन् जो पनि ।

सुख बाँड्नु अरुसंगै, दुःख आफैमा
उमंगको भागि अरु, पीडा साथैमा
सोह्रै आना आफ्नो हुन्छ, पराइको मन
अर्काको खलितको, काम लाग्दैन धन ।

घाम जून धर्ती आकाश, आफै बन्नुपर्छ
आफ्नो लागि जिउने बाटो, आफै खन्नुपर्छ
स्वर्ग नर्क देखिदैन, आफै नमरी
आफै भाग्य लेखिदैन, कर्म नगरी ।

२. बैगुनीलाई

भन्छन् हजुर बैगुनीलाई, गुनैले मान्नु
विपत्तिमा पनि कैले, हिम्मत नहार्नु
यति गर्न सकेदेखि, स्वच्छ हुन्छ मन
जोगाइराखे बचाइराखे, सधैं आफ्नोपन ।

विश्वास पनि सस्तो हुन्छ, कुरा काट्नेको

If I Should Have a Son

Jwalanta Panthee
Asheville, North Carolina

If I should have a son,
I would want him to call me Dr. Phil because I would want him to feel as if he could talk to me about anything.
I'd not only hear, but I would listen.

It is a heinous world out there and I will teach him to be fearless,
to do something every day that scares him.
I will teach him not to wait a single second before socking someone in the face that had previously punched him.

If I should have a son, I will tell him that it's okay to get his clothes covered in grass and mud because the best clothes are the ones worn in with new experiences.
The Universe is the limit! (Why limit yourself to just the sky?)

I will always want him to be respectful to me and others.
He will treat their opinions with the admiration and reverence they deserve.
I'll tell him to keep his feet on the ground and his eyes in the skies.

I will tell him every day to fight for what he believes in and fight for others and those who don't have as much as he does.
I'll tell him to fight for justice, because the truth is,
you can't stand up for yourself if you don't stand for others.

Most importantly, if I should have a son,
I will teach him that I am not only his father,
but a friend of his who will always be there for him.
I am his warrior and I will protect him no matter what the circumstances are.
And if anyone is bothering him, he'll surely tell them to face, his father.

Chiya Khaani?

Jyotsna Panthee
Asheville, North Carolina

A cup of tea is what I crave when I yearn for comfort. Not just any tea, chiya tea; more specifically, masala chiya. It constructs a bridge to my culture while providing me with a sense of well-being.

A country where chiya is served throughout the day at almost every social event; from capacious, formal meetings to small casual chats. During the summer of 2011, my family and I took a trip to Nepal as a way for me to stay in touch with my heritage and culture. While in Nepal, I visited many of my relatives who were spread throughout the regions. Some lived in impressive three-story houses in the cities, while others resided in small huts in the villages. Wherever their home was located, all of our relatives greeted us with the same sweet welcome and a question, “Chiya khani?— would you like some tea?”

I gladly accepted the delectable offer in every home we visited, sometimes even wanting seconds. The preparation for this traditional gesture initially begins with a pot of hot water on the stove. As the water starts to heat up, tea powder is sprinkled over it. Once it reaches its boiling point, milk is poured in, cooling the brewed tea. At this point, sugar or any types of spices can be added, allowing for it to boil again. Using a strainer, the tea powder and other spices are separated from chai before serving it with some crisp biscuits. Although the preparations for chai are all similar, I recall each house having its own distinct flavor. Some spicy, some sweet, but all filled with warmth, kindness, and a drop of tranquility.

This chiya tradition did not stop once we departed Nepal. When returned to the United States, I realized just how much chiya was consumed in my own family. Every morning, my mom makes the family some tea before starting our day. Upon coming home, we drink chai as a remedy to wind down after a long day of academia. Whenever a guest is over, we say, “Ek cup chiya kham- let’s have a cup of tea.” During times of stress, sorrow, or joy, I find myself preparing chiya several times a day. Boil half a cup of water. Add tea powder. Let it boil. Add half a cup of milk, sugar, and any other desired spice. Let it boil once more. Strain and enjoy. It was like a mantra that I lived by. The delicate balance of perfectly brewed tea, water, milk, and sugar relaxes me and brings me the same sense of warmth and happiness that my relatives showed me.

Thanksgiving Festival

Tilak B. Shrestha, Ph.D
Huntsville, Alabama

We all Nepalese living in USA celebrate the great American ‘Thanksgiving’ festival with much joy. We are jovial people, love festivals and celebrate both our own Nepalese and American festivals. The Thanksgiving is celebrated on the fourth Thursday of the November month. Offices and schools are closed, and families gather to enjoy the main dish – Turkey. It is the first authentic American festival created by the new settlers. It is a non-religious festival, made in America with the theme of the Native Americans and the new settlers coming together and celebrating the bounty of the country. It does resonate deeply with our own experience.

Some of the early settlers in the America from Europe were called ‘Pilgrims.’ They came in 1620 and tried to establish a colony in Plymouth, Massachusetts, New England. But the winter was already setting in and they did not have enough provision to survive. Luckily there were good hearted Native Americans, who helped them. Next year they had bounty of harvest and survival was assured. To commemorate the good fortune the Pilgrims invited the Native American friends and had a big feast in 1621 – ‘Thanksgiving.’ The feast lasted for 3 days attended by 90 Native Americans and 53 Pilgrims. Poor us, we celebrate only one day. The day was made an official public federal holiday by Honorable President Abraham Lincoln in 1863.

One interesting tradition of the Thanksgiving is the Presidential Pardon of the Turkey. The turkey is the main dish enjoyed as per the tradition. The Turkey Federation annually donates two turkeys to the White House since 1947. In 1989 President George H.W. Bush made the tradition of pardoning the Turkey and let the turkeys live their natural life in a farm. Some accounts credit President John F. Kennedy and President Ronald Reagan for the tradition. It is not to be misunderstood as the Ambassador of Republic of Turkey getting Presidential Pardon. But today pardoned Turkeys are happy and thanks President Barack Obama.

Another interesting aspect of the Thanksgiving is the Black Friday. On the Friday following the Thanksgiving many businesses give special discounts in their prices to boost their sales. People line up the stores to buy bargain items. This also signals the coming Christmas season, another great festival.

Many people take the following Friday off to make it a long 4 days weekend. Many travel to see their families and friends. It is one of the busy traveling weekends.

The Thanksgiving feast comes with traditional menu. Of course, we Nepalese add a few our own dishes. Besides turkey, the traditional Thanksgiving feasts usually have cranberry sauce, stuffing or dressing; and gravy. Other commonly served dishes include winter squash, sweet potatoes, mashed potatoes, dumplings, corn, deviled eggs, green beans, peas and carrots, bread rolls, cornbread, biscuits, rutabagas, turnips etc. For dessert, various pies are often served, particularly apple pie, sweet potato pie, pumpkin pie, chocolate cream pie and pecan pie.

It may be interesting to note the menu of the first Thanksgiving feast in 1621 between the Pilgrims and the Wampanoag Native Americans at Plymouth Colony. It contained turkey, waterfowl, venison, fish, lobster, clams, berries, fruit, pumpkin and squash.

The festival is about the basic human instinct of helping others in distress and being grateful. If our society runs with these two sentiments, we will achieve heaven here in this earth.

The main theme of the 'Thanksgiving festival' is the people from different parts of world, with different backgrounds and cultures coming together; helping each other and enjoying the bounty of the nature. It may be summed up with the ancient Sanskrit mantra: 'Basundhaiwa Kutumbakam' – 'World is one family.'

Christmas Festival

Christmas is such a colorful festival. People are in good and giving mood. Homes, communities and businesses are decorated with lights and ornaments. Christmas trees, reindeers, sleighs, real or fake snow are the staples. Of course, there cannot be Christmas without - Ho, Ho jovial Santa Claus carrying the bag of toys for children. He is the happy old guy clad in red, white and green suit, white flowing beard, riding sleighs, making toys for children in his castle in the North Pole assisted by his elves. Businesses have special sales to assist the festivity. And children, aged 5 to 55, do believe in both Santa Claus and Toys. People are nice with greetings, 'Merry Christmas, Happy Holidays.' Families and friends have big parties, invite even strangers and exchange gifts, a piece of heaven in the earth, indeed.

The Christmas is mainly celebrated in Christian countries and communities. But its appeal to the basic human goodness has transcended it to other countries and communities as well. Though it is given as a Christian festival and the day as the birth day of Jesus, it is much older. Its origin is tied to the Winter solstice and human optimism symbolized by the beginning of the day getting longer. The pre-Christian, Pagan European celebrated it as the day of the Sun. The decorated tree is the symbol of the fertility and the rejuvenation in the nature. It is similar to the pole 'Yashin' in our 'Indra Jatra' festival in Nepal. Nobody knows which year Jesus was born, let alone the day. However, later Church got rid of the Pagans, took over the festival, declared it as the Christian festival and the day as the Jesus' birth day. By the way, the Church also took over Pagan title 'Pope' and temple 'Vatican' as their own. Thus, there are Christian sects which do not consider it as Christian and do not celebrate.

The origin of happy Santa Claus bringing toys to children, also known as Saint Nicholas, Father Christmas or Kris Kringle, comes from ancient European folklores and legends. There are many myths associated with it: Odin - Norse God, Sinterklaas - Dutch folklore, Tomte – Scandinavian folklore, Saint Nicholas – Greek folklore etc. Today's fabled and jovial Santa Claus is the modern American interpretation. Either way, we all children love him.

We are the jovial Nepalese. We promote our culture, respect others, and if good celebrate as well. As usual we add our own color to it. We have a few Nepalese dishes, invite friends and have fun. Let us celebrate the Essence of the Christmas: 'Sarve Bhavantu Sukhinah' – let All be Happy, 'Om Shanti, Shanti, Shantih' – let Peace Prevail in the Earth.

Who is That and Where is That?

*Dr. Bishnu Phuyal
Mount Prospect, IL*

Take a long span of time of your life and begin to ponder over all the things that you have in memory from your past to the present, as much as you can, one by one.

Start with the first incident in your memory that you still can remember well. Try to discern any other possible visual impression you have in your memory, of all living or non-living objects related to this first incident. Now, reflect upon what you physically looked like back then, what you wore, etc.? Next, try to know all the content or state of your mind or feeling at that time for that incident, any feeling you may have in your consciousness as much as possible.

Similarly, bring the next incident to your consciousness from your memory. Begin visualizing the mater of the incident, content of the scene, physical appearance of objects, etc. including any material and non-materials things, the state of your mind and also your impression on the state of the mind of the other related to this incident.

In this way, fetch the content of your memory of your past into your consciousness one by one, and in the order of time as much as possible. In each of these incidents in your memory, keep on knowing your own physical form, your own mental state and any other material and non-material objects of things related to these events. In each of these incidents, may you reflect what influenced most to your mental state most at that time?

Now assume you have some super natural ability to put all those things of each of the incidents; the physical characteristics, the mental state, things that influenced your mental state and the one that influenced most in some forms and states in front of you lined in sequence of time and space, from the very first to the most current.

What you see? What you realize? And what could you conclude observing these material and non-materials things? Is it not extremely baffling that you can see yourself from that time how much you have changed in shape, size and forms over time? You can see your physical form changing continuously. Your physical appearance changed from a young baby to adulthood and then to your current age or old age. And it changed vividly.

Next begin analyzing how much changes occurred in your mental state from the outcome of how you react with things then and now that surrounds you. How much consistency you have in things of similar matter and how much inconsistency you have become reacting differently to same kind of things, things that are similar in nature, at different times.

You can see those non-material things, things of mental nature, different at different time and hence they are also changing. You have changed in your form and your characteristics. What remained constant may be absent, not even scanty. Furthermore what you also have seen constantly changing in both physical and non-physical forms of things for other person or things.

Therefore it is our experience of things that are materials of physical types, seem to change over time. If we can understand each and every subtlety, it can be concluded that change is happening to all the things constantly. Nature brings the changes constantly. However, things that are non-materials, that are of mental characteristics, which lie within us, also change with time, beginning from our young age to the adulthood and to the old age continuously. Our interest or taste and hence our mind react differently with the change in space and time. So our physical and mental state and hence all other physical and mental states or all non-material things are completely influenced in space time and have the characteristics of impermanence, some sort of dynamism.

Due to their changing nature, things must not have any supremacy to know and capability to record all these changes, because it would have changed already. But all those changes that we are able to perceive in this way, seems to be somewhere within us, that awareness or that consciousness is always there; and interestingly it seems it is there just inside ourselves, completely within our own body. Surprisingly profound is to understand the fact that nothing has influenced this consciousness to change; it was there as far as we can remember, it is there now and hence it has not changed anything at all. So, as it was there ever since we know, should be there ever too, before we know or even after? It has remained as a witness all along our life span. If we are so sure that it has not changed at all, can we not say then then that its state be remain unchanged beyond the time span? That is the way it seems to be, because nothing seems to influence it to change.

Therefore in order to know these characteristics of changes in physical and non-physical things, there is this something present within each of us as a witness which is conscious and constantly know all the changes, recording those changes and keeping them intact. And this one certainly appears to have no changes; otherwise all those records would not be remaining. Therefore there is this thing that is never changing and that it must be the one which knows and sees all the changes all the time and remain unchanged. Who is that and where is that?

How Healthy is Your Urinary Bladder

*Dr. Shankar P. Parajuli
Columbia, SC*

Normal function of urinary bladder

Urinary bladder is a hollow, balloon-shaped organ, which has two major functions: storage and emptying of urine. A healthy bladder stores urine at relatively low pressure and expels them periodically at a socially accepted time. Regular function of bladder is to contract and relax in a coordinated manner which is controlled by an interaction between the central nervous system (brain and spinal cord) and organs of the lower urinary tract (bladder, urethra, pelvic floor muscles). Any disturbances in these process result in bladder control problems including overactive bladder and urinary incontinence including frequency and urgency of urination and difficulties emptying the bladder. Difficulty emptying the bladder involves conditions such as a weak flow of urine, frequent urination and not emptying to completion. These bladder symptoms are often called as overactive bladder. The most common symptom of overactive bladder is a sudden urge to urinate that makes you fear you will leak urine if you don't get to a bathroom right away. People with overactive bladder condition have to go to bathrooms several times during the day and night, for example more than 8 times a day. The increasing scientific study shows that occurrence of bladder control problem increases with aging in both man and woman.

Causes of bladder control problem

Any disturbances in the regular functions of bladder causes bladder control problems. For example, patients with diseases that involve the central nervous system, such as neurogenic UrologyHealth.org Glossaryneurogenic: Causing or relating to the disorder of nerves. problems in children, spinal cord injuries, Parkinson's disease, cerebrovascular accidents (strokes) and multiple sclerosis, could have bladder control problems. In addition, trauma, irradiation and other injuries to the lower urinary tract and pelvic organs could potentially cause bladder control problems. Overall, dysfunctions of the urinary bladder function have an enormous impact on the health and health care of tens of millions of U.S. citizens. Thus, bladder control problems are a major financial burden on the health care system in the U.S. and beyond. The scientific communities are focused to explore the underlying mechanism of overactive bladder and to provide a reliable therapeutic control of unstable bladder with a minimum side effects.

Major risks for overactive bladder

Aging people of both men and women are at a higher risk for overactive bladder and urinary incontinence. However, all the aging people will not have overactive bladder symptoms. Women who have gone through menopause have a higher risk of urinary incontinence. Men who have had prostate problems also seem to have a higher risk for overactive bladder. The prostate gland commonly becomes enlarged as a man ages. As the prostate enlarges, it may squeeze the urethra and affect the flow of the urinary stream. Obesity and diabetes are also risk factors for developing overactive bladder symptoms. The people with overactive bladder symptoms are enhanced by a certain food and drinks such as caffeine, artificial sweeteners, alcohol and very spicy foods.

Some treatment options for overactive bladders

Behavioral therapy: Behavioral therapy or lifestyle changes are often used as a primary treatment option to control overactive bladder. Behavioral therapy includes some changes in the way you live day-to-day. This may include changing your diet, or practicing methods that may help control your symptoms. Although most patients don't get rid of all their bladder dysfunction with lifestyle changes, they feel a significant relief on frequency and urgency of urine voiding. It is highly recommended to eat less bladder irritating foods. These food include coffee, tea, artificial sweeteners, caffeine, alcohol, soda, other fizzy drinks, citrus fruit, food made with tomatoes, chocolate (but not white chocolate) and spicy foods. Some people have trouble with emptying their bladders completely. This phenomenon is also known as urine retention. Such a bladder problem can be minimized by double voiding or emptying bladder twice. Another important behavioral therapy is delayed voiding in which you teach yourself to put off going to the bathroom even when feel an urgency. At first, you wait just a few minutes and gradually you will be able to wait two to three hours between bathroom visits. If you try to wait too long to go to the bathroom you may have problem of urine leakage.

Antimuscarinic therapy: Presently, the mainstay of therapeutic treatment of overactive bladder relies upon antimuscarinic drugs. However, these antimuscarinic drugs may have many adverse side effects such as constipation, blurred vision, and dry mouth.

Estrogen therapy: Women are at lower risk of overactive bladder during premenopausal period than that of postmenopausal period. Menopause is the time in a woman's life when her ovaries stop releasing eggs and menstruation ends. During menopause, female sex hormone estrogen level drop dramatically causing development of overactive bladder symptoms. Despite having some side effects, estrogen therapy has been shown to be effective in controlling overactive bladder symptoms and urinary incontinence.

Enlarged prostate therapy: Prostate glands, which are located near the bladder, can start to enlarge while age of men increases. This will not happen to all men, but as many as 50 percent of men will experience this problem which is also known as benign prostrate hyperplasia symptoms. This can cause irritation or even obstruction of urethra causing symptoms of overactive bladder and urinary incontinence. Medication, bladder training exercises, and surgery (in severe condition) can help get overactive bladder symptoms under control.

Dr. Parajuli has been collaborated with Drs. Georgi V. Petkov, an internationally recognized scientist, and Eric S. Rovner, an internationally recognized urologist, to study the urinary bladder smooth muscle function and dysfunctions.

Delivery of Special Education Services in Nepal: A Need Assessment

*Dr. Ram Chandra Baral
Columbia, South Carolina*

Since the establishment of a democratically elected multi-party government in 1990, the need for advancing a national educational program has been evident if Nepal is to rise above its present poverty status. This study provides a description of the existing status, the needs, and future proposals concerning special education for exceptional students in Nepal.

The purpose of this study was to conduct a needs assessment for the delivery of special education services in Nepal. Specifically, this study provides: a) a national overview of the status of special education services in Nepal; b) a description of the specific issues with which school administrators are faced in trying to serve exceptional children and youth, and c) recommendations for the future.

The review of the literature addresses the limited Nepalese data and information on: a) prevalence of exceptional school-age population; b) the legal status of special education; and c) exceptional students being served. The major components of comprehensive special education programs were discussed including: a) the purposes of special education; b) the alternative kinds of special education services; and c) the organization of special education services.

The methodology for this study included a description of a conceptual model; unit of analysis; subjects selection; instrumentation, data collection methods; and data analysis procedures.

The results described the current status and needs of special education services in all seventy five school districts of Nepal. Interviews and questionnaires were used to collect data from district education officers. These data presented the responses of the district education officers regarding the: types and numbers of children with exceptionalities identified, served, and not served; the kinds of personnel and programs provided; operating procedures; barriers; and administrators, suggestions for improving services. The recommendations from this study included: information about strong and weak areas in existing services and needs to improve the special education services; a new model for the delivery of services; and suggestions for effecting further action. This study concluded with comments on the feasibility of implementing a national plan, with particular attention to the establishment of a nationwide delivery procedure for Nepalese children with special education needs

During this special meeting it was great honor to have all our Former Presidents presence who had served with dignity and played a key role in all joint convention during their tenure. Thanks for sharing your experience and expertise regarding the decade long NASeA/ANMA joint convention and providing us your valuable feedback which will definitely help us shape up and plan better for our future joint convention.

Both NASeA and ANMA current executives have given a high priority in evaluating its a decade long joint convention and work together to further enhance the incoming joint convention in all aspect to make this more productive towards best serving our community always placing our identity as Nepalese American First! A great process has begun....

Moving forward, we look forward having our 1st official conferencing/physical meeting with our ANMA counterpart during the month of January 2015. Details of which will be worked out together by NASeA and ANMA secretariat and will be updated to us accordingly. Stay tuned we will reach all our Former Presidents, Advisers and Well wishers of NASeA for your valuable advises and guidelines and together we will give consistency to our decade long NASeA/ANMA joint convention to a different height.

During this we can initiate the dialogue towards our joint commitment and even form a NASeA/ANMA joint task force to work out the details where short and long term procedures/goals of the joint convention is well addressed.

Furthermore this will lead us to sign Joint Convention MOU between NASeA and ANMA which will be our legal binding to best serve our community of our region. Here I would like to recall a proposed draft MOU of joint convention prior to 9th joint convention by then Chair Dr. Baral (our current president) was proposed during NASeA Presidents Dr. Sanjeeb Sapkota tenure but never got finalized.

One thing is very clear to us all that both [partner organizations NASeA/ANMA will continue to be the part of this joint convention and together we will make our 11th NASeA/ANMA joint convention 2015 in NC a grand success!

Given the level of interests and activities we hope NASeA will grow stronger and soar higher. The main reason of our success is our focus only on promoting Nepalese socio-cultural heritages, festivities, languages, literature, arts, and music. We do sadly recognize that our nation is in a chaotic situation of disparity, political and ethnic discord. We are sure this is only a temporary phenomenon and our traditional peace and harmony will prevail. In this backdrop our promotion of the 'Unity in diversity' does touch many sympathetic hearts. Our motto always remains 'Nepalese unity and harmony.'

Further suggestions:

- To expand its horizon in the Americas and around the globe;
- To enhance community contacts and joint programs with Bhutanese, since we are Nepalese in all aspects;
- To include Nepalese from other countries such as India, Burma, and others. Because, Nepalese identity and ties are very strong with them;
- To include American friends of Nepalese community and interested in Nepal ;
- To work for the dual citizenship with Nepal, it remains an unresolved issue of NRN;
- To revise Bylaws of NASeA and make it current, e.g. membership deadline issues;
- To change the acronym of the organization as 'NASA.' The earlier acronym of the organization was 'NASA', which changed to 'NASeA' to remove confusion with the American rocket program. However, we need to expand our scope to international level not limiting within Southeast America only, though head quartered in Atlanta, GA;
- To keep NASeA an independent organization, without recognizing supra umbrella organization.

A Letter to the His Excellency Honorable British Ambassador

December 15, 2014

Honorable Andy Sparkes Jee
British Ambassador
Kathmandu, Nepal

Sadar Namaste!
Merry Christmas!

Your preaching of 'secularism' to be included in the Nepalese constitution is noted. It may be interesting to note the difference between the preaching and the practice. Britain is a declared Christian 'Church of England', not a Secular, nation. Doesn't that make you a hypocrite?

I am sure an educated person like you knows the difference between religions like Christianity and Dharmas like ours. Religions always interfere in politics and are violent. Thus it requires secularism. Hindu Rastra merely means respect of our heritage, roots and values; not theocracy. Therefore, secularism is irrelevant. You may also note that our constitution has been very clear on 'non-discrimination' as per any social factors including creeds.

Yes, a few of us are your mercenaries, but none of us are your subjects. You get bigger bang for smaller buck with us; with no charge for honor, courage, loyalty and friendship.

You may not have to worry about Huns and Samurais, but how about within Britain?

In formulating our nationhood, we are merely looking back at our heritage coming from Shiva, Buddha, Janak, Sita, Manju Shree, Veda Vyas, Yalambar, Bhrikuti, Machhendra Nath, Gorakh Nath, Arniko, Shakhwal and others. That is, Hindu Rastra is not a theocracy. Our world view comes from the time honored philosophies.

| 7. Divine peace, peace, and peace | Om shantih, shantih, shantih |

In comparison, the Church of England (16th century) is rooted on the polygamy of the King Henry VIII, and the crazy doctrines:

1. Acts 4:12 There is no salvation in any other religions.
2. John 3:16-18 Who does not believe in Jesus stands condemned already.
3. John 14:6 Jesus said to him, "I am the way, the truth, and the life. No one comes to the father except through me.

This is not a mere cheap idea, but laced with violence. Britain was Christianized around 7th century. What happened to your pre-Christian ancestors, the famous Druids? Which were your ancestors? The Druids or the Christian converts who killed them off? Interestingly, you, as a Christian, no matter what sins you may committed, are assured of heaven. But you also agree that all your non-Christian ancestors are in hell. However, after all, you may still meet your ancestors. The great honorable Pope has already ex-communicated you (1534). Just to make it extra sure, the great honorable Patriarch also has ex-communicated you and the Pope (1053). Please let me assure you that your pre-Christian ancestors were virtuous and are in heaven.

May Buddha bless us all with wisdom!

Most sincerely,
Dr. Tilak B. Shrestha
